In European countries, financial instability and high unemployment rate caused economic deterioration although economy started to recover except some countries.

However, the economy began to level off as the government's economic stimulus measures expired toward the end of the year, and appreciation of the yen and deflation continued to create uncertainty about the future direction of the economy.

The pump manufacturing industry in Japan had some steady demand from overseas for water- and energy-related sector. However competition for orders in the industry was under much more severe condition as a result of depressed public investment, stagnation of private capital investment and lower competitiveness due to strong yen, etc.
